

AIMS Project Report – January 18, 2019

The Imagine phase of the project is nearing completion, and activities have escalated related to the commencement of the Deliver phase. Interviews are being conducted with candidates who have put their names forward through a recent Expression of Interest.

In preparation for the next phase, the team has been engaged in final reviews of design deliverables and foundational strategies for the project, including user stories, a data conversion strategy, technical configuration documentation and a testing strategy, among other considerations.

The past week has seen drafts completed for the Technology playbook, Architecture playbook and Back up and Business Continuity Strategy (Technical).
